Terumo's Surshield™ Safety Winged Blood Collection Sets are unique from other safety winged butterflies in that most safety winged butterflies are designed to be activated one way and require a second hand; Surshield™ provides two different one-handed activation options:

- Hard Surface
- Thumb

**Refer to product labels and package insert for complete warnings, precautions, potential complications, and instructions for use*

Two one-handed activation techniques give options without sacrificing personal technique.

Terumo's Surshield™ Safety Winged Blood Collection Sets were designed with large flexible wings, coil resistant tubing offered in 3 ½", 8" and 12" length options, and most importantly a double bevel cut needle that is bonded to the wings at just under a 3° downward angle, to help avoid vessel damage or occlusion of the lumen. This line also aids in reducing trauma to already compromised veins, making it the ideal product for pediatric and geriatric patients, and patients with small veins or low blood pressure.

Help your customers standardize to a product designed to decrease shelf stock and increase shelf space with Terumo's Surshield™ Safety Winged Blood Collection Sets which can also help improve operational efficiencies and enhance clinical and patient outcomes.
